Quota International Honored with Two Communicator Awards

(Washington, D.C.) Two Quota International communication tools were recognized for outstanding work in the communication field in the international 2006 Communicator Awards competition. The Quotarian, an annual membership magazine highlighting club successes and events, received an Award of Distinction for exceeding high industry standards in the Non-Profit Magazine category. The charitable arm of Quota International, the We Share Foundation, received Honorable Mention recognition for its Web site, www.wesharefoundation.org.

The Communicator Awards recognize achievements in communication. In 2006, industry professionals judged 5,214 entries from organizations throughout the United States and several foreign countries, looking for submissions that exceeded a high standard of excellence and served as benchmarks for the industry. Just 18 percent of submissions receive Awards of Distinction, while only seven percent were Honorable Mention winners. The Quotarian magazine has been recognized five years in a row, while 2005 marked the first year the We Share Foundation's Web site received accolades.

Quota International, Inc., is an 87-year-old international service organization that links members of all ages, occupations, and nationalities in a worldwide network of service and friendship. With the support of the We Share Foundation and media like the Quotarian magazine and the We Share Foundation Web site, its almost 300 clubs in 14 countries around the globe contribute thousands of service hours and over a million dollars in donations annually.
