

Volunteer of the Year Award

Quota International of Camden Haven Inc. are proud to nominate foundation member, Patrecia Legge, for the "Volunteer of the Year Award".

Pat has been a member of Quota International for 23 years. Over that time, Pat has served in every executive position. She has been involved in almost all service activities undertaken by our club and been responsible for initiating many of them.

Pat's children recall her commitment to Parents and Citizen Association during their school years. Scouts and Guides, soccer and netball clubs all benefitted from Pat's involvement.

Patrecia now shares the role of Pastor in the Johns River Community of Christ and also leads the small local church community. As Pastor, she has coordinated community seminars on mental health and ageing, as well as being the Church Stewardship Commissioner (Treasurer).

Her involvement with Meals on Wheels has been on going since the introduction of that service in the Camden Haven, delivering daily meals to housebound and isolated people.

Public transport is not readily available in the Camden Haven, so Pat volunteers as a community driver, transporting people to appointments necessary to maintain their health and well being.

In 2010 Pat undertook a course to train to become a Volunteer Literacy Tutor. She now assists people of non-English speaking background and adults with reading, spelling and numeracy difficulties.

This award, presented by Quota International, would be an appropriate acknowledgement of Pat's work both within Quota and the local community.
